ABSTRACT
The purpose of this creative project is to create an interior design plan for University Apartments. The researcher partnered with University Apartments at Ball State University located in Muncie, Indiana. University Apartments provided the researcher with floor plans of Anthony Apartments and a budget of $5,000. The project was created to provide a design plan that could be used to remodel university apartments. The researcher created a Finish and Product Guide that presents the possibilities of a remodel. The method used to complete this creative project was communication between University Apartments and the researcher, analyzing the products and finishes, researching design trends in student housing, and creating a Finish and Product Guide. The researcher was successfully able to complete the interior design plan within the restrictions of a $5,000 budget.
