Cardinals Looking For Continued Success in 2008
by Ryne Hillenberg - Athletics Communications & Marketing Student Assistant

Joel Walton, who enters his 10th season as head coach of the Ball State men’s volleyball team, is poised to return the program to championship form with 12 lettermen returning from last year’s squad, including four starters and libero.

The Cardinals finished the 2007 season ranked 13th in the nation with an 18-12 overall record, including an 8-4 Midwestern Intercollegiate Volleyball Association mark.

Leading the way for Ball State in 2008 will be seniors Ian Peckler, Patrick Durbin and Justin Orr.

Peckler, a Second-Team All-America selection last season as voted by the American Volleyball Coaches Association and Volleyball Magazine, will return for his fifth year with the program. He has amassed 750 digs over his career and currently holds the career record for digs-per-game average at 2.53. Peckler needs 297 digs this season to become Ball State’s all-time career leader in the category.

“Ian will be our defensive anchor,” Walton said. “I expect him to lead our conference in quality passes and digs.”

Durbin, who redshirted a year ago, will be a formidable attacker and blocker for BSU this year. As a junior in 2006, Durbin earned All-MIVA Second Team accolades after posting 269 kills, 159 digs and 50 blocks.

“Pat is another senior we will be relying on,” Walton said. “He has ability to not only be our team’s top attacker, but also a match-up blocker that can disrupt our opponents’ best attackers.”

Orr, a transfer from Missouri, enters his second and final year with the team, will continue to be a force at the net for Ball State. In 2007, Orr totaled 48 kills and 49 blocks.

“Justin, who will continue his academic work in dentistry at another institution next year, will play a huge roll at the net for us this season,” Walton said. “We will rely on him for offense and blocking.”

Behind the seniors, BSU boasts a full cast of juniors and sophomores who have valuable playing experience.

Starting with juniors, Ball State has four lettermen who will see playing time this season, including BSU’s top returning point scorer, Matt McCarthy.

McCarthy, an All-MIVA Second Team selection last season, led BSU with 104 total blocks and ranked ninth in the nation with a .448 attack percentage. He was also second on the team in kills, with 255, trailing only 2007 graduate Nick Meyer.

“Matt is our team’s top middle,” Walton said. “He has strong blocking and attacking skills, plus a personality that gives our team a lot of energy.”

Tod Chamberlain had a successful sophomore campaign in 2007, scoring 219 kills and a .489 kills-per-game average. Chamberlain also totaled 138 digs and 20 aces.

“Todd continues to be our team’s most athletic player,” Walton said. “He provides a huge offensive boost to our team and his consistency continues to improve.”

Ryan Clarke returns for his junior season after battling knee injuries which have hampered him since his freshman year. Clarke finished the 2007 season with 82 blocks and 101 kills.

“Ryan is a wild card we hope to have ready by mid season,” Walton said. “He is recovering from his second consecutive summer of knee surgeries. He will hopefully challenge for a starting role in the latter half of our season.”

The final junior, Mark Termion, totaled 48 kills and 33 digs last season coming off the bench. Termion, who shares Ball State’s record for aces in a match at 11 with McCarthy, also logged 10 blocks last season.

“Mark is one of our team’s better ball control players,” said Walton. “He also has the ability to provided our team with an offensive spark in the front row.”

BSU’s returning second-year players include two setters, a pair of outside attackers, a middle attacker and a libero.

Jeff Schmitz and Ethan Pheister return for their second season as BSU’s setters. Last year, the pair were used interchangeably depending on the style of offense the match required. Despite splitting playing time, Schmitz was named the 2007 MIVA Freshman of the Year, an award he shared with IPFW’s Matt Pliski.

Pheister also played an important role for BSU, setting the offense to wins over No. 6 Ohio State and No. 9 Pacific. He also earned MIVA Player of the Week accolades.

“I’m glad we have a pair of setters with college experience,” Walton said. “Both are capable of running our team’s offense. While we have yet to find a clear cut winner in the setter position, we are using both Jeff and Ethan a great deal according to our designed match-ups.

“Both have showed the ability to be our team’s starter, and I am pleased with how they have progressed. I also like the fact they run our offense differently. They each have strengths which help our team in different ways.”

BSU’s two sophomore outside attackers, Matt Sprague and Eric Schulte, tallied 77 and 54 kills, respectively, last year.

“Matt is one of our team’s best passers and is an experienced volleyball player who maximizes his athletic ability,” Walton said. “He is a great competitor who was instrumental in some of our biggest wins last season.

“Eric has one of our team’s best arms and we are working with him to improve his consistency. He also has a fiery personality which gives our team a big emotional boost.”

Middle attacker Ben Irwin, who enters his redshirt sophomore season as the team’s tallest player, will be a blocking factor in the front row for the Cardinals. Last year Irwin totaled 10 kills and nine blocks in limited action.

“Ben is one of our most dominate middle attackers,” Walton said. “His progress has been steady since joining our program in 2006. We look for him to play an increasingly important role this season.”

Libero Billy Ebel, who is training to take over for fifth-year senior Ian Peckler, was mainly a serving specialist for the Cardinals last season, racking up five aces and 14 digs.

“We have seen great improvement in Billy’s passing and defense this fall,” Walton said. “He will continue to be a serving and defensive substitute for us and could push fan for some playing time as our starting libero, which is high praise since Ian was an All-American last year.”

The Cardinals also have an array of talented freshman who should contribute immediately. Redshirt freshman Marcus Imwalle, as well as true freshmen James Emming, Ted Garard, J.D. Gasparovic and Lee Meyer will all see playing time.

Dominic Spadavecchio and Daniel Penrod are expected to redshirt this season.

“Overall, I think we’ve got a good mix of returning veterans and talented, young players,” Walton said. “They have me excited about the season.”

The Cardinals open the 2008 season in sunny Honolulu for the Outrigger Hotels Invitational. Ball State will play on three consecutive days starting Jan. 3 against UCLA. BSU will also face Hawaii and Penn State in the event.

Ball State opens a four-match home stand Jan. 18 versus Penn State. After a four-match road swing which takes the Cardinals coast-to-coast, BSU will host Ohio State Feb. 15 to open a six-match home stand which ends with back-to-back matches versus UCLA.

BSU hosts IPFW March 21 and ends the regular season with matches at Ohio State (April 11) and Lewis (April 12). The 2008 MIVA Tournament gets underway April 19, with the championship match being played April 26. The 2008 NCAA Championship dates are May 1 and 2.

“Overall, our schedule is really strong this year,” Walton said. “We are playing tough competition within our conference and we are playing a number of tough east and west coast teams.

“With the challenges our schedule provides, and the fact we are playing a number of tough matches early in the year, we have had to step up our training this fall.

“The strength of our schedule will be great preparation for our team’s most important matches in April and May.”
Joel Walton enters his 10th season as Ball State’s head coach looking to guide the program to its 16th appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

In his previous nine seasons, Walton has led the Cardinals to a 172-94 (.647) overall record. In MIVA action, his teams boast an 89-43 (.674) mark. Overall, Walton has guided the program to five 20-plus win seasons.

In 2002, Walton coached the Cardinals to MIVA regular season and tournament titles, plus led the team to the NCAA Tournament, where it lost to No. 1 Pepperdine in the national semifinal match.

The 2001 MIVA Coach of the Year, Walton has had BSU ranked in the final USA Today/AVCA Coaches Poll in 2003. The Cardinals have been ranked in 112 of a possible 159 polls since Walton took over as head coach, including 25 Top-10 poll appearances.

During the 2003 season, the Cardinals were ranked sixth in two-straight polls, marking the highest ranking under Walton, and the program’s best ranking since the 1995 final poll had the team fifth.

Along with the team accolades, Walton has coached three All-Americans over the last nine seasons, including 2002 AVCA All-America First Team selection Paul Fasshauer. Fasshauer earned the honor after posting an NCAA-best .536 hitting percentage during the 2002 season.

In 2007, Ian Peckler earned All-America Second Team status on both the AVCA and Volleyball Magazine lists, after ranking sixth in the nation with a 2.65 digs-per-game average. In 2004, Keith Schunzel was named to the AVCA All-America Second Team as one of the nation’s top setters.

The 2007 season also saw Walton coach freshman Jeff Schmitz to second place at the 1986 Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympics. One year later, he led the squad to a first-place finish. Walton also coached Muncie Burris High School’s junior varsity girls team in 1986 and 1987. The 1987 team went undefeated.

During his four-year playing career, Walton helped Ball State to two league titles and a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances. As a senior, he captained BSU and led the Cardinals in digs (285), while ranking second in kills (426). The dig total ranks seventh in school history, while the kill total is 19th.

Walton held the BSU single-match record for digs until the 2006 season, scoring 25 in a 3-1 victory at Ohio State April 1, 1987. For his career, he ranks third on BSU’s list for digs-per-game average (2.20). He is eighth in digs (710), 11th in matches with double-figure digs (23), 11th in service aces-per-game average (0.22), tied for 12th in matches with double-figure kills (42) and 16th in kills (897). In all, his name can be found in BSU’s record book in 27 of the 51 statistical categories.

In 1986, Walton was named the Indiana AAU Player of the Year and was selected to compete in the U.S. Olympic Festival for a second straight year. He helped the West Team to third place.

Joel and his wife, the former Jennifer Wright, are the parents of a daughter, Kaetlin (18), and a son, Bailey (12).

Assistant Coach Kevin Furnish

Kevin Furnish, a former three-year letterwinner for the Ball State University men's volleyball team, is in his ninth season as his alma mater's assistant coach.

In his previous eight seasons, the Cardinals have compiled a 159-80 overall record, including an 81-37 mark in MIVA action.

During the 2002 season, Furnish helped guide BSU to MIVA regular season and tournament titles, plus helped the team to the NCAA Tournament, where it lost to No. 1 Pepperdine in the national semifinal match.

With Furnish’s assistance, BSU has been ranked in the final USA Today/AVCA Coaches Top-15 Poll in seven of the last eight seasons. Overall, the Cardinals have been ranked in 108 of a possible 142 polls since Furnish joined the staff, including 25 Top-10 rankings.

During the 2003 season, the Cardinals were ranked sixth in two-straight polls, marking the program’s highest ranking since the 1995 final poll had the team fifth.

Along with the team accolades, Furnish has helped guide three Cardinals to All-America honors. Paul Fasshauer was a 2002 AVCA All-America First Team selection, while Ian Peckler earned All-America Second Team status on both the AVCA and Volleyball Magazine list in 2007, plus Keith Schunzel was a 2004 AVCA All-America Second Team honoree.

The 2007 season also saw Furnish help coach freshman Jeff Schmitz to the program’s first MIVA Freshman of the Year honor. Overall, BSU’s student-athletes have earned All-MIVA honors 26 times since Furnish joined the staff, including 11 first team selections, 12 second team honorees and two third team choices.

Academically, Nick Meyer was the latest player to earn academic all-district accolades, when he was named to the academic all-district accolades, when he was named to the 2006 CoSIDA Academic All-District V At-Large Team. BSU’s players have earned numerous academic all-conference awards with Furnish’s guidance, with seven making the 2007 list.

Prior to returning to Ball State as an assistant, Furnish spent four years as the head coach of the St. Joseph’s (Ind.) College women’s volleyball team after spending the 1995 campaign as an assistant. From 1996-2000, he led the Lady Pumas with the highlight of his four-year career being the 1999 season.

In 1999, he guided the Lady Pumas to a 19-11 record and the school’s second straight appearance in the Great Lakes Valley Conference Tournament.

Furnish began his coaching career in 1990, when he became the head coach of the girls varsity team at Shenandoah High School. He held that position until becoming head coach of the boys club team at the school in 1994.

In addition to those positions, Furnish has gained coaching experience at the club and camp level. He began a two-year stint on the staff of the Munciana Volleyball Club in 1990 and later served as director of the Cool Volleyball Club in 1993 and 1994.

Furnish coached with the Reebok Vision Volleyball Club in 1995. He was also an instructor for the Ball State Volleyball Camps from 1989-91, the University of Wisconsin Volleyball Camps in 1995 and 1996 and the Epicenter Volleyball Camps in Milwaukee, Wis., in 1997.

As a collegiate student-athlete at Ball State, Furnish led the nation and totaled the then-second-highest hitting percentage in school history when he hit .430 during the 1989 season to help the Cardinals to an MIVA Championship and a fourth-place finish at the NCAA Tournament.

He earned the first of two straight All-MIVA First-Team selections the following season after helping BSU to a second straight league title and a third-place showing in the national tourney. Furnish ranked fifth nationally with a .383 hitting percentage and placed second on the Cardinals with 153 total blocks – the then-fourth-highest single-season total in school history.

Despite missing much of the 1991 season with various ailments, Furnish was selected as BSU’s Most Valuable Player after hitting a team-high .339 with a squad-best 4.70 kills per game.

Furnish currently ranks seventh in team history with a .378 hitting percentage. THE MIVA

With an expressed intent of “promoting volleyball in colleges and regulating by wise and prudent measures the college volleyball competition in the area,” the Midwestern Intercollegiate Volleyball Conference was formed in 1961. It was the first league of its kind in the United States designed to organize collegiate volleyball competition.

The conference, which later became the Midwestern Intercollegiate Volleyball Association, sponsors champions at the NCAA and NAIA levels. For the 2008 season, the NCAA portion of the league is comprised of seven schools which make up the Shondell/Dunlap Division.

The Shondell/Dunlap Division is comprised of Ball State (1994), IPFW (1981), Lewis (1996), Mercyhurst (1997), Ohio State (1961) and Quincy (1994). The 2008 MIVA schedule for the Shondell/Dunlap Division includes 12 matches in which all schools play each other twice, once at home and once on the road. The winner of the regular season title will earn the No. 1 seed in the 2008 MIVA Tournament. The rest of the seeds (2 to 7) will be determined by regular season record.

The winner of the 2008 MIVA Tournament will earn the league’s automatic bid into the NCAA Tournament.

After the 2007 season, the four members of the Coleman Division left the league. Carthage and the Milwaukee School of Engineering joined the Midwest-Ill Volleyball Conference, while Clarke moved to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and Central State dropped its program.

For the 2008 season, the NCAA portion of the league is comprised of seven schools not participating in MIVA Tournament.

Collins says, “Couple that with the university’s and the community’s commitment to providing the student-athletes with outstanding facilities and a supportive atmosphere, and it becomes clear why Ball State has a proud academic and athletic tradition — one I’m looking forward to continuing and enhancing.”

Collins inherited a Ball State 19-sport intercollegiate athletics program with a rich tradition in academic and athletic success. The tradition has continued under Collins’ guidance. The baseball team won the 2006 MAC Tournament and made its first appearance in the NCAA Tournament since 1969. The women’s soccer team won its first-ever MAC Regular-Season Championship, while the women’s basketball team advance to the WNIT and hosted Kentucky in a first-round game. Academically, Ball State had 17 of its 19 teams with scores above the national average in the NCAA Division I Academic Progress Report, with the men’s tennis team scoring a perfect 1,000. Ball State’s football team was second in the MAC with a 942 score, while the men’s basketball team placed fourth among league schools with a 949. Ball State’s women’s basketball program earned a score of 987 to place first among public schools in the state of Indiana and third in the league.

Collins involvement in the MAC includes sitting on the league’s finance committee and serving as the men’s golf coaches liaison to the MAC office.

Prior to taking the position at Ball State, Collins served the previous 20 years in several capacities in the athletics department at Arizona State University, including the last five in the department’s number two position as the senior associate athletic director.

Collins’ resume includes working for some of the most recognizable names in intercollegiate athletics. While at Arizona State, he worked with athletic directors Dick Tamburo, Kevin White (currently the A.D. at Notre Dame) and Gene Smith (currently the A.D. at Ohio State). Collins also worked with athletic director Sam Jankovich, while at the University of Miami, and his colleagues through the years include current A.D.’s Bill Moos (Oregon), Jim Livengood (Arizona), Herman Frazier (Hawaii), Michael Alden (Missouri), Sandy Hatfield Clubb (Drake) and Vic Cegles (Long Beach State).

During his tenure at Arizona State, he oversaw seven nationally ranked Division I-A programs, helped direct a collegiate licensing program that generated annual revenues in excess of $450,000, and created the department’s Addy Award-winning “Playing with Fire” marketing slogan.

Prior to being named to his senior associate A.D. position at Arizona State, Collins served as the university’s associate athletic director, overseeing corporate and community affairs, and as assistant athletic director. He also worked as assistant athletic director at the University of Miami and as the ticket manager at Washington State.
It divides teams.
It unites them.
It teaches lessons in triumph and educates in humility.
It creates rivalries that extend for decades and friendships that extend even further.
