What are your goals and expectations for the year?
“Last year, we took a significant step forward in winning the MAC West championship. I was very proud of our guys for our effort and that accomplishment. A phrase we are using with our guys is ‘you have to live with your backs to the past.’ We have to understand and appreciate what we did and accomplished last year, but we have to get ready and move forward with this season. We certainly want to compete for another MAC West Championship, but ultimately our goal is to compete for a MAC championship in both the regular season and postseason. We have a lot of growth to get to that point, but we want to continue to take steps forward to that overall championship.”

With the graduation of four senior captains, where will your leadership come from this year?
“Our leadership will come from a few different areas. We will get contributions from Brawley Chisholm and Terrence Watson, who are both seniors for us. They have different basketball experiences but have been with this program for over a year. They bring different leadership aspects to the team. Brawley is more of our vocal leader and Terrence is a guy that keeps everyone loose with his personality. We will also get leadership from Malik Perry, who has two years of playing experience, brings toughness and tenacity which has an impact on our team. Lastly, Jarrod Jones provides us with leadership, even though his is a young player. He is going to contribute significantly on the floor and is the type of leader guys follow based upon his actions.”

What is one strength of this year’s team?
Our front court play will be a strength this year as we have not only talent but depth. Leading the way is Jarrod Jones who has worked extremely hard this off season to get ready for the year. He was really thrown into the fire last year, especially when Anthony Newell was injured. He became the focal point of every team’s defense and saw a lot of different looks which helped him develop as a player. Malik Perry is back in the front court for his third straight season and he has been tough, tenacious and a key member on our defense with his play and rebounding ability.

The addition of Terrence Watson adds a lot to our front court. He is a very versatile player that can rebound, block shots, score in the low post and attack the rim. He brings a different versatility to our forward position that we really haven’t had on our team. Mo Hubbard returns after playing a lot for us last year. He can make the 15-foot jump shot, is a good passer and has good basketball skills. He is another tough physical interior player for us.

Finally, Zach Fields red-shirted last year and has really trimmed down during the off season. He is moving better and has a chance to be able to play and contribute for us this year.

How does the guard play break down this season?
We have a mix of experienced players and new players at the guard position this year. Our returning guards were able to learn from some great senior guards last year in Brandon Lampley, Laron Frazer and Rob Giles, and that tutelage will help us this year.

Randy Davis has worked extremely hard and has really put the time in this offseason getting extra shots and working on his game to prepare himself this year. He played a lot of minutes last year and gained valuable experience playing behind Lampley and Frazer. Brawley Chisholm really saw what it takes to be successful playing behind those guards last season. He worked and trained in the offseason to be ready and we are looking forward to his play improving to a higher level.

Jaquan Saffe should be an impact freshman for us. He has the ability to shoot the ball from the perimeter, has a strong body and is a terrific athlete. Pierre Sneed brings experience to our back court. He is a tall, physical guard that has the ability to run in transition. He is one of our better perimeter defenders and brings toughness and athleticism to our team. Finally, Myron Green Jr. is a wing player who has a strong body. He is very good getting to the basket, is a strong finisher, is improving his jump shooting and getting more confidence.

What challenges does the non-conference schedule present this team?
“We have some significant challenges in the non-conference portion. Each year, we tried to step up our scheduling efforts and challenge our guys prior to MAC play. Taking on Big Ten opponent Purdue, travelling to two Atlantic 10 and NCAA Tournament opponents in Temple and Dayton as well as playing instate rivals such as Butler, Indiana State and Valparaiso will be great challenges for our guys. All of our non-conference games will be tough, hard-nosed affairs that will prepare us for our MAC schedule.

What are your impressions of the MAC this season?
“The MAC will be very balanced again this season. We saw last year the regular season went down to the final game, seeding wise, and that will be much of the same this year. The West Division’s biggest challenge this year will be to stay healthy. The past couple of years there have been significant injuries in the West, but I think this year the West will continue to get better and will be a challenge each and every night on the court. The East Division was strong last year but it lost some key guys to graduation. Akron has a lot of guys returning from an NCAA Tournament team while Kent State and Miami are both very tough and talented teams.

Billy Taylor enters his third season as head coach of the Ball State men’s basketball team in 2009-10. Taylor spent his first season laying the foundation for the Cardinals’ program, a foundation that is rooted in four traits - character, commitment, mental toughness and dedication. In his second season, he more than doubled the Cardinals’ win total from his first year and led Ball State to a share of the Mid-American Conference West Division championship in 2008-09. Under his guidance, the Cardinals advanced to the MAC Tournament semifinals for the first time since the 2001-02 season after winning their first MAC Tournament game since 2003-04 season.

Ball State, which was picked to finish fifth in the MAC West Division in the preseason poll, finished the 2008-09 season with a 14-17 overall record and a 7-9 mark in conference play. The Cardinals tallied eight more wins than the 2007-08 season despite the loss of MAC Player of the Year candidate Anthony Newell who was injured midway through the season. Ball State once again turned in one of the top defenses in the MAC as it limited opponents to just 59.7 points per game on the season and only 57.2 points per game in conference play. Taylor finished second in the voting for MAC Coach of the Year for his work turning around the Cardinals’ program.

Under his guidance, Jones and senior guard Brandon Lampeley earned All-MAC Honorable Mention honors, marking the second straight year that the Cardinals have placed two on the All-MAC team. Jones was named the MAC’s Freshman of the Year by the conference as well as the conference Newcomer of the Year by the MACreportonline.com. He also picked up MAC All-Freshman honors as he became just the second Cardinal all-time to earn All-MAC accolades as a freshman.

In 2007-08, Taylor guided the Cardinals to a 6-24 record in his first year at the helm and a 5-11 record in Mid-American Conference action. The Cardinals posted one of the toughest scoring defenses in the MAC last season under Taylor’s tutelage as BSU allowed just 63.9 points per game. Ball State’s scoring defense was the fourth best in the MAC last season.

Prior to Ball State, Taylor spent five seasons as the head coach at Lehigh where he posted an 81-69 record and was a two-time Patriot League Coach of the Year honoree. He led the Mountain Hawks to the 2003-04 Patriot League regular season and tournament championship as well as an appearance in the NCAA Tournament. In 2005-06, Lehigh posted the third most wins in program history with 19 and a program-record 11 Patriot League victories.

A 1995 graduate of Notre Dame and the Irish men’s basketball team captain as a senior, Taylor owns an overall career coaching record of 100-109 in seven seasons as a head coach. He posted an 81-69 record in five seasons at the helm of Lehigh University where he earned Patriot League Coach of the Year honors twice.

Taylor and his wife, Avlon, have two daughters, Gavielle and Tamia, and a son, Savion.
Bob Simmons enters his first season as associate head coach at Ball State University for head coach Billy Taylor and his third overall at BSU. Simmons is also entering his eighth season overall on coach Taylor's staff, as he spent five seasons with Taylor at Lehigh University. Simmons played a pivotal role last season as the Cardinals claimed a share of the Mid-American Conference West Division title.

Simmons is the Cardinals' top assistant for coach Taylor and has been instrumental in Ball State's recruiting efforts in his time here. Prior to the 2008-09 season, the Cardinals' staff brought in eight newcomers and the class was ranked in the Top 80 in recruiting classes by hoopmasters.com, marking the only MAC team rated that high. Among the recruiting class was MAC Freshman of the Year Jarrod Jones, who Simmons tutored to one of the top freshman campaigns in Ball state history. Jones finished third all-time in Ball State history among freshman in rebounding at 227 boards and fourth all-time in freshman scoring at 346 points.

Simmons earned his bachelor's degree from Wilkes University in 1993. He and his wife Deb have two daughters, Hannah and Isabella.

Joseph Price enters his third season as an assistant coach at Ball State under head coach Billy Taylor. Price helped the Cardinals claim the Mid-American Conference West Division title last season and played a pivotal role on the recruiting trail as Ball State's 2008-09 class was ranked in the top 80 by hoopmasters.com.

Price, who is in charge of the Cardinals' guards, played an integral role in the development of the Cardinals' backcourt last season, including senior Brandon Lampley's Honorable Mention All-Mid-American Conference season.

Price was named to the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame's 2007 Men's Silver Anniversary Team which recognizes outstanding high school graduates from 25 years earlier. He played collegiately at Notre Dame for a coaching staff that included head coach Digger Phelps (ESPN Analyst) and assistants Pete Gillen (Virginia), Jim Baron (Rhode Island) and Gary Brokaw (NBA's Charlotte Bobcats). He received his bachelor's degree in sociology from Notre Dame in 1986. Following his senior season, he was chosen in the 1986 NBA Draft by the Washington Bullets in the seventh round.

Price has one daughter, Naomi.
Jay Newberry enters his second year as an assistant coach at Ball State for head coach Billy Taylor. Newberry played an integral role last season in helping the Cardinals claim the Mid-American Conference West Division title as they more than doubled their win total from the previous two seasons.

Prior to his promotion, Newberry spent two seasons as director of basketball operations for the Cardinals. He assisted with academics, scheduling, practice planning, film exchange and game film editing among other duties.

A four-year letterwinner in basketball at Rollins College, Newberry was his team’s Most Outstanding Senior and team captain his final year.

A 2000 graduate from Rollins College with a degree in mathematics, Newberry earned his Master’s in Education in Health and Physical Education from Augusta State in 2006.

Newberry and his wife, Laurie, have a daughter, Sarah (4), and two sons, Matty (2) and Auggy (7 months).

Mitch Gilfillan enters his first season as the director of basketball operations for head coach Billy Taylor. Gilfillan, a Morton, Ill. native, was a four-year letterwinner for Taylor and Simmons at Lehigh University.

During his career, the Mountain Hawks posted a 69-50 record, including a 20-11 mark his sophomore year as Lehigh claimed its first ever Patriot League regular season and tournament championship, which led to a berth in the 2004 NCAA Tournament. He left Lehigh as part of the all-time winningest class in Mountain Hawk basketball history.

Gilfillan earned Patriot League All-Rookie honors as a freshman when he led the league in three-point shooting during conference action. As team captain during his senior campaign, he helped Lehigh post the third most wins in school history with a 19-12 mark, including a school-record 11 Patriot League victories. He led the Patriot League with the highest assist/turnover ratio as the Mountain Hawks’ starting point guard.

Gilfillan also received numerous awards off the court at Lehigh as he earned the Undergraduate Merit Award, Outstanding Service Award, Coaches Awards and the Southside Booster Award. He graduated in 2006 with a Bachelor of Arts degree in political science.

Gilfillan earned a Juris Doctor from Valparaiso University School of Law in 2009 and was a member of the Moot Court Honor Society, the executive board of the Trial Advocacy Team and represented the law school on the 2008-09 steering committee.

A WINNING TRADITION

Dick Hunsaker and Rick Majerus (Above) posted the top two winning percentages for head coaches in program history at .740 and .717, respectively.

Former Ball State standout Bonzi Wells was selected in the 1998 NBA Draft with the 11th pick overall in the first round, becoming the first Cardinal selected in the top round. Ball State has had three other players selected in the NBA Draft in Dan Palombizio (1986 - Philadelphia 76ers, 7th round), Ray McCallum (Indiana Pacers, 8th round), and Jim Regenold (Milwaukee Bucks, 9th round).

Ball State basketball has won 1,079 games over its 88-year history. The Cardinals have posted 48 seasons of at least .500 basketball in program history, including a program-best 29-3 mark in the 1988-89 season.

Ball State has had a total of 548 student-athletes earn letters for the program. Ray McCallum and Bonzi Wells are the only Cardinals to have their jerseys retired and hang from the rafters in Worthen Arena.

Former Cardinal Chandler Thompson (1989-92) scored 1,219 points during his career. Thompson is one of 24 Cardinals all-time to reach 1,000 points during his career; Peyton Stovall the latest to join the club with 1,383 in his career (2003-08).

1989-90 Sweet 16

Paris McCurdy’s basket with no time left tied the Cardinals with Oregon State in the first round of the 1990 NCAA Tournament. McCurdy’s ensuing free throw advanced BSU to a second round game vs. Louisville.

- Ball State advanced to its first ever NCAA Tournament Sweet 16 as the Cardinals defeated fifth-seeded Oregon State (94-53) and Metro-Conference champions Louisville (62-60). The Cardinals fell to eventual national champion UNLV at the West Regional semifinals in Oakland, Calif. 69-67.
- Ball State had the seventh-best winning percentage of all NCAA Division I teams from 1988-89 through 1992-93. BSU posted a 126-36 mark for a .778 winning percentage in that span.
- In 1990, Ball State ranked 22nd in the final USA Today/CNN Poll, which is the Cardinals’ highest ranking to end a season in school history.

Ball State played the nation’s No. 1 (Duke), No. 3 (Kansas), No. 4 (UCLA) and No. 5 (Oklahoma State) teams during the non-conference schedule in 2001-02. BSU experienced its greatest 48 hours of college basketball in November of 2001, when in 24 hours, the Cardinals defeated Kansas (93-91) and UCLA (91-73), which were ranked No. 3 and No. 4 at the time.

The wins over Kansas and UCLA, at the Maui Invitational, mark the highest ranked teams a BSU team has ever defeated and vaulted the Cardinals into the title game against No. 1 Duke. The Blue Devils posted an 83-71 win. BSU was ranked for four straight weeks (Nov. 26-Dec. 17) in the top-25 of the AP and ESPN/USA Today Poll, and received votes each week in the ESPN/USA Today Poll until Feb. 4. Ball State was ranked 15th in the AP Poll Dec. 3, which marked the highest ranking in school history.

Ball State accepted a bid in 2002 to the National Invitation Tournament and was awarded a first-round home game against Conference USA’s South Florida. Behind a 40-point performance from junior Chris Williams, the Cardinals posted a 98-92 win to advance to the second round. In round two, Ball State played at St. Joseph’s and rolled to a 76-54 victory in Philadelphia. Senior Patrick Jackson scored 20 points to lead the Cardinals to round three.

Four days later, Ball State was in Baton Rouge, La., on the homecourt of the LSU Tigers. The thrilling game was decided with two minutes to play when Jackson drilled an off-balanced three-pointer to give BSU the lead for good. Chris Williams ended with 25 points, while Jackson and Theron Smith each added 19 in the 76-65 win.

Two days later, the Cardinals’ season ended with an 82-47 loss at South Carolina in the Elite Eight of the NIT.

Jo Ann Gora began serving as Ball State University’s 14th president in August 2004. She is making immersive learning the cornerstone of every Ball State student’s college experience. During 2007–08, more than 2,600 Ball State students completed 125 immersive learning projects throughout Indiana.

Gora has led an update of Ball State’s strategic plan, which is the basis for the university’s capital campaign, Ball State Bold: Investing in the Future. It will raise $200 million by 2011. She recently earned the Mira Trailblazer Award from TechPoint for her significant and lasting contributions to technology innovation in Indiana.

Gora was one of the 12 charter signatories to the American College and University Presidents Climate Commitment in December 2006. In May, Gora and other officials broke ground on the nation’s largest ground source geothermal energy system. When completed, it will heat and cool more than 40 buildings on campus, saving the university $2 million a year while reducing its carbon footprint by nearly half.

In 2008, she was awarded an honorary doctorate from Yeungnam University in South Korea. She is Indiana’s representative to the American Association of State Colleges and Universities board and is one of the 57 presidents and chancellors on The New York Times/Chronicle of Higher Education higher education cabinet. She chairs the Mid-American Conference Presidents’ Council and co-chairs the Central Indiana Corporate Partnership. She serves on the boards of the Indiana Chamber of Commerce, First Merchants Bank, and Ball Memorial Hospital.
Among our more than 146,000 living alumni are renowned entertainers, top corporate executives, leading educators, and members of the Indiana General Assembly.
