Europe
London? A memory. Venice? Reclaimed by the Adriatic Sea. Thousands of years from now, in this catastrophic scenario, the Netherlands will have long since surrendered to the sea, and most of Europe will be gone too. Meanwhile, the Mediterranean’s expanding waters will also have filled the Black and Caspian Seas.

Asia
Land now inhabited by 600 million Chinese would flood, as would all of Bangladesh, population 150 million, and much of coastal India. The inundation of the Mekong delta would make Cambodia’s Cambodia. Mountains arrayed as an island.

North America
The entire Atlantic seaboard would vanish, along with Florida and the Gulf Coast. In California, San Francisco’s delta would become a cluster of islands and the Central Valley a giant bay. The Gulf of California would stretch north past the latitude of San Diego—not that it would be in San Diego.

South America
The Amazon Basin in the north and the Paraguay River Basin in the south would become Atlantic areas, wiping out Buenos Aires, coastal Uruguay, and much of Patagonia. Mountains once stretched would survive along the Guaraná coast and in Central America.

Mother Jones
Freedom of the press and news media is an essential element of a free society. Nowhere is the press perfectly free, and arguably nor should it be: most liberal societies agree that hate speech should be restricted. But when information and opinion critical of the state cannot be published, citizens’ freedom is at risk.

After a period of improvement in world press freedom in the early 1990s, the next decade saw a steady decline.

In many countries, measures to shackle the press are backed by attacks on journalists. Sometimes servants of the state carry out or tacitly condone the attacks.

UNIVERSITY ISSUES THOUSANDS OF CITATIONS

From Jan. 1, 2013, to April 1, 2014, the university issued a total of 28,185 parking tickets. This map shows how many tickets were issued in spots throughout campus during this time period.

Violation fees for parking range from $20 to $135. A hold appears on a student's Bursar account until they pay the ticket. Vehicles that have five or more unpaid parking tickets will be booted or towed from campus; it costs $30 to remove the vehicle's boot.

America
For everyone
The U.S. is both a male and female sport, with 97% of those who played in youth soccer having access to equal opportunity laws opened new horizon at the college level. In 1991, the U.S. Women's World Cup, and repeated in 2011, was the first women's World Cup in history. Women's soccer is on the rise, although on any given day, Mexico or Canada—smaller nations of Guatemala or Costa Rica—can challenge the neighbor. Soccer is the great equalizer.

Europe
Lure of the rich and famous Birthplace of the modern game, England
craved soccer worldwide, especially in Europe.
In 1966, the women's World Cup was hosted by Germany. The 2006
World Cup will bring together the best national teams in the world, who survived a rigorous,
two-year competition to qualify.

Asia
A growing passion
Over the past two decades, a heated soccer industry—among Japan, China, and South Korea—has stirred soccer passions across the continent.
Not all countries share the fervor, however: India and Pakistan prefer other sports, especially cricket.
Meanwhile, oil-rich Persian Gulf states such as Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and Qatar are investing vast sums of money in their programs, hiring the best coaches and players money can buy.
Twitter mentions of "hockey"

Map all mentions of "hockey" on Twitter during a random period during the NHL season — the map shows mentions during December 2013 — and one thing stands out: despite the NHL’s foremost efforts, fans still cluster along the Canadian border. The blue dots show individual tweets, while the redder colors show the percentage of all tweets, but both reveal a much higher level of interest in Canada, as well as northern cities like Minneapolis, Detroit, and Boston. The NHL has spread teams across the southern United States, but increased interest is growing more slowly.

Nowhere do women have equal representation with men in government. But the presence of women in government is important for the rights of women and the nature of governance itself. Recent studies suggest that women introduce different perceptions of the norms of appropriate governance.

Elisabeth Domitien became the first Black woman prime minister of an independent state in the Central African Republic in 1975.

In 1960 Sirimavo Bandaranaike became the first woman prime minister in the world as the elected leader of Sri Lanka.
Eye of the Beholder: Countries with Miss Universe Pageant Winners
1952-2013

Miss Universe began in 1952 and was won by a contestant from Finland.

International beauty contests promote and export a white, Western standard of beauty. Globalization is accelerating the adoption of these standards around the world. As new governments seek global economic integration, they often signal this by jumping on the Western beauty bandwagon. The proliferation of beauty contests in the former Soviet bloc countries is particularly striking.

The pageant had only 26 contestants in 1953 but 89 contestants in 2011 and 2012. The youngest Miss Universe winner was 17, and the oldest was 26.
Child Brides: Average age of women at first marriage is 20 years or younger

Data from 2003

In Niger, 70% of girls, but only 4% of boys are married by age 19.

In Nepal, 7% of girls are married before they’re 10 years old.

The highest rates of child marriage are found in Bangladesh, the Central African Republic, Chad, Guinea, Mali, and Niger. In these countries, more than 60% of girls aged under 18 are married.

In the late 1990’s in the Indian state of Rajasthan, 56% of girls were married before 15, and of those 17% were married before age 10.
In Their Place

State legislatures enacted 301 anti-abortion measures between 1995 and 2001; 87% of all U.S. counties are now not served by an abortion provider.

In Kyrgyzstan, family law prohibits divorce during pregnancy and while a child is younger than one year old.

Women in the Congo need the husband’s permission for most routine legal transactions, including accepting a job and opening a bank account.

Women in Saudi Arabia are not allowed to drive cars or ride bicycles.

Restrictions on women:
- State restricts women’s travel or mobility, or supports men’s authority to do so; typically women need permission of a male relative to travel or obtain a passport
- State laws impose compulsory dress codes on women
- State laws restrict both women’s travel and dress
- Cultural norms, religious fundamentalism, or nationalist pressure are imposing increasing social restrictions on women

Same-sex partnership recognition

Status as of mid-2008

- Same-sex marriages and partnerships accorded the same legal standing as heterosexual marriages in national law.
- Same-sex partnerships have similar status to heterosexual marriages.
- Same-sex partnerships have legal standing under national law, but not on parity with heterosexual marriages.
- Legal recognition of same-sex partnerships is extended at some state or local levels.
- National-level legislation bans federal recognition of same-sex partnerships.

- Federal ban on same-sex marriages/unions, but some local recognition.
- Same-sex marriage banned since 1998.
- Constitution amended in 2005 to ban same-sex marriage.
- Federal ban on same-sex marriage, but some local recognition of partnerships.

Where homosexuality is criminalized, the prevailing assumption is that recognition of same-sex relationships is also not possible.
