Historical Note:

Ball State University began in 1899 as a small, private teacher training school in Muncie, Indiana. After the community's efforts to sustain the college failed, the Ball brothers of Ball Brothers Company purchased the land and buildings of the defunct institution and donated them to the State of Indiana. This gift became the Indiana State Normal School Eastern Division, which opened in 1918 to meet Indiana's need for more and better teachers.

In recognition of the Ball family's generosity, the Indiana General Assembly changed the school's name to Ball Teachers College in 1922 and then Ball State Teachers College in 1929.

By the 1960s, the regional teachers college had begun to attract faculty from outside the Midwest and students sought majors in areas outside of teaching. In 1965, the Indiana General Assembly renamed the college Ball State University in recognition of its expanded curriculum.

Scope and Contents:

This collection consists of drawings for buildings and properties belonging to Ball State University. It includes topographic maps of campus, working drawings for various buildings on campus, specifications, project manuals, and landscape plans. Also in the collection are a few building programs, competition announcements, records of building committee meetings, shop drawings, architectural renderings, models, and artifacts. The drawings are arranged chronologically.

Conditions Governing Access:

This collection is open for research.
