Historical Note:

The College of Architecture and Planning (CAP) at Ball State University was founded in 1965 by an act of the Indiana General Assembly. Charles Sappenfield was named the first dean of the college in July of 1965. The first class consisted of 165 students, enrolled in the fall of 1966. The first graduating class, consisting of 16 students, matriculated in 1971.

CAP was originally housed in military-surplus Quonset huts. A competition for a new CAP building was developed in 1967, and a design by Melvin D. Birkey of South Bend, Ind., was chosen in 1968. The building was dedicated in December of 1972. An addition was called for in 1979. A design by Crumlish/Sporleder and Associates was chosen by competition in 1980 and the new addition was dedicated in 1983.

CAP grew from its outset, and numerous new programs have been initiated. The College immediately instituted a Guest Lecture series, which brought (and continues to bring) worldrecognized speakers to campus. The international, interdisciplinary study tour PolyArk was established in 1972. Prof. David Hermansen helped to establish the first Master of Science in Historic Preservation degree program in the Midwest in 1979. In 1980, the Muncie Urban Design Studio was established as part of CAP's Community Based Projects program. The CAP Indianapolis Center was opened in 2002, and the Center for Historic Preservation in 2004.

The College of Architecture and Planning celebrated its 40th anniversary in 2005.
