Biographical Note:

Robert Platt Daggett (1837-1915), was born at New Haven, Connecticut. After receiving "the general architectural training deemed necessary in the mid-nineteenth century," and after his marriage to Caroline E. Frost, he moved to Indianapolis and began his professional career. A Fellow of the American Institute of Architects, he was regarded as "the outstanding figure in the profession during his day, and his services were sought throughout the middle west. He was prominent in the fraternal life of the city, also, having been a Thirty-second degree Mason and an Odd Fellow." He was, in addition, a member of the Indianapolis Engineering Club, the Commercial Club, and the Knights of Pythias. Daggett gave up his practice in 1912, retired to California, and died at the age of seventy-eight at Escalon, in San Joaquin County.

James B. Lizius, a native of Germany, came to Indianapolis in 1872. He was a member of the American Institute of Architects, the Indianapolis Engineering Club, Commercial Club, and the Odd Fellows. He served for a time (ca. 1894) as secretary of the Indianapolis Chapter of the A.I.A. He was a partner in R. P. Daggett & Co. from its founding in 1880 approximately until his death in 1911.

Robert Frost Daggett (1875-1955), son of Robert Platt and Caroline E. (Frost) Daggett, was born and raised in Indianapolis and completed high school there in 1893. He then studied architecture at the University of Pennsylvania, receiving his degree in 1896. (He may have worked for his father during his school years; the 1894 Indianapolis city directory lists his occupation as "draughtsman"). He undertook further study at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris, from which he received a diploma in 1901.

Returning to Indianapolis, he married Lizette Lothian and in the same year joined his father's firm, which he continued after his father's death in 1915. During the First World War, he saw active duty in the U.S. Army, first as a lieutenant in the 472nd Air Squadron and later as captain in the 17th Engineers, serving in France from November 1917 to February 1919. While overseas, he was responsible for building several field and base hospitals.

Mr. Daggett was active in professional societies, fraternal and social clubs, and a Mason. Licensed in Indiana (as registered architect no. 802), he became a member of the American Institute of Architects in 1920, served in 1920 as chairman of the Indiana Society of Architects' Board of Arbitration, and was named a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects about 1926. His home from 1920 until his death was at 4904 Washington Blvd. Mr. and Mrs. Daggett were survived by two sons: James Lothian and Robert Frost, Jr.

Robert Frost ("Pete") Daggett, Jr. (1912-1985), son of Robert Frost and Lizette (Lothian) Daggett, studied at Butler University, 1930-31 and received his B.F.A. degree from Yale University in 1936. He worked as an architect in his father's office for two years after graduation, ca. 1936-38, then with the U.S. Engineering Department (Trinidad, British West Indies) ca. 1938-40, and in California 1940-41. During the war years, 1941-46, he was Lieutenant in the U.S. Navy, serving in both European and Pacific theaters.

A faculty member at the University of Illinois, Navy Pier, Chicago, 1946-48, he re-joined his father's firm as an associate in 1948. He was a member, past Treasurer (1953-55) and Vice-President (1955-56) of the Indiana Society of Architects; member of the American Institute of Architects; member of the University Club, Indianapolis Athletic Club, Portfolio Club, and Indianapolis Yale Club.

Married to Mary Patricia Smith, Cleveland, Ohio, on Dec. 9, 1950, Mr. Daggett was survived by two daughters: Catherine Smith and Lizette Lothian Daggett.

F(rederich) Harold Naegele (1903-1979), was born in Indianapolis and educated in the Indianapolis public schools, Emmerich Manual Training High School, and the University of Illinois, from which he received a B.S. in Architecture in 1925. After graduation, he worked two years (1925-27) in the office of Fellheimer and Wagner, New York, as architectural draftsman and as Superintendent of Construction for the New York Central passenger station at Youngstown, Ohio. A year of European travel followed, as Francis J. Plym Fellow in Architecture for 1927-28.

During 1929 and 1930 he was architectural designer in the Indianapolis office of Donald Graham. His association with the Daggett firm began in 1931, at the age of twenty-eight, first on a temporary basis and then as a regular employee beginning in 1935. During the war, when the Daggett office was closed, Mr. Naegele worked in the Industrial Engineering Department of R.C.A. He returned to the Daggett firm at the end of the war, took the examination to become a registered architect in 1945, and became an associate in the firm soon afterward (ca. 1948). After the Daggett firm closed, Naegele practiced as F. Harold Naegele, Architect, in Venice, Florida.

Kenneth H(arrison) Mendenhall, Jr. joined the firm in 1950 and remained there until 1977. He currently is an associate with Fink Roberts & Petrie, Inc., consulting engineers.

Historical Note:

The Daggett office contributed substantially to the development of Indianapolis and surrounding areas for over a century. The names and dates under which the firm did business, spanning three generations of ownership, are:

Robert Platt Daggett	ca. 1868-1880
Daggett and Roth	ca. 1870-1874
R. P. Daggett & Co.	1880-1915
Robert Frost Daggett, Architect	1915-1948
Robert Frost Daggett & Associates	1948-1952
Daggett, Naegele & Daggett, Inc.	1952-1961
Daggett Naegele & Associates, Inc.	1961-1977

More than seven hundred building projects are attributed to the Daggett firm, many of them well-known. Robert Platt Daggett designed over a hundred residences in Indiana and Illinois between 1880 and 1900, including the James Whitcomb Riley house (Nickum house) on Lockerbie St. in Indianapolis as well as numerous business blocks, factories, fire-engine houses, churches, and schools. He was responsible for fifteen buildings at Purdue University and several projects for Eli Lilly & Co.

His son, Robert Frost Daggett, continued the association with Lilly & Co. and with Purdue University. He was architect also for Indiana, DePauw, and Butler Universities. He designed several buildings at the Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis, the Indianapolis Athletic Club, the Chamber of Commerce Building, many Indianapolis public schools, the Third Church of Christ, Scientist, and (with J. W. C. Corbusier) Tabernacle Presbyterian Church. Among his few residential commissions are the J. K. Lilly and Eli Lilly homes on Sunset Lane.

During the tenure of Robert Frost Daggett, Jr., the firm continued to design public schools, buildings for Lilly & Co., and projects for Indiana University on the Kokomo Campus as well as at Bloomington. They did Indianapolis Community Hospital and several other hospitals around the state, the Greyhound bus terminal, buildings for the Peter Paul Company, the Otis Elevator plant in Bloomington, and several office buildings and churches.

R. P. Daggett; Daggett and Roth; R. P. Daggett & Co.

The firm traces its origins to 1868, when Robert Platt Daggett moved to Indianapolis and opened an office in that city. He was in partnership with Matthew Roth for several years, ca. 1870-74, doing business as Daggett and Roth, architects, with offices in Vinton's Block. In 1879, Daggett (now without Roth) had offices at 18 Bates Block.

The business known as R. P. Daggett & Co. was formed the following year, 1880, when Daggett entered into partnership with James B. Lizius (Lizius was also a partner in the firm of J. B. Lizius and Co., patent solicitors). Located at 18 Bates Block at least until 1883, R. P. Daggett & Co. moved to 18 When Block (38 N. Pennsylvania St.) sometime between 1883 and 1887. An 1892 city directory lists the address as the northwest corner of Meridian and Ohio Streets. By 1893, the firm had moved to a suite of four rooms at nos. 28-32 Marion Block, where it remained at least through 1900. In 1908, the address was 804-806 Lemcke Building.

An 1883 publication regards R. P. Daggett & Co. as "occupying a position in the very front rank of this ennobling profession," responsible for "many of the finest public and private buildings in this and adjoining states." Indianapolis Public School No. 3 is singled out for special mention; a model exhibited in Philadelphia at the Centennial Exhibition of 1876 "was awarded the first prize over all competitors from this and other nations." The source adds, "nearly every business structure on Meridian Street since 1879 from the Union Depot northward to Washington Street has been designed and erected under the supervision of this firm."

An Indianapolis booster pamphlet published in 1896 notes that "R. P. Daggett & Co. rank with the leading architects in this state."

Robert Frost Daggett, Architect

James Lizius remained with R. P. Daggett & Co. approximately until his death in 1911. Robert Platt Daggett retired from business the following year. Daggett's son, Robert Frost Daggett, then took over management of the firm, continuing it under his own name after his father's death in 1915.

The office of Robert Frost Daggett, Architect, was located at 956-958 Lemcke Annex in 1916, at 960-962 Lemcke Annex from 1919 to 1925, and then at 922 Continental Bank Building (17 N. Meridian St.) from about 1925 or 1926 at least until 1928.

Work was scarce during the Great Depression; the location of the office during the early 1930s is unknown. F. Harold Naegele recalls working conditions of the time:

Employment was not continuous but rather depended upon the length of time required to design and then complete a set of working drawings, followed by a period of unemployment until another commission came along. Never was there more than one job in the office at one time and the drafting force consisted of from three to six men with only one having enough seniority to remain during the lulls.

Business picked up about 1935, however, and "steady employment was assured for three or four with additional help added as required." A 1936 city directory lists 25 Monument Circle, room 921, as the business address. For a few years afterward, ca. 1937-39, the firm was at 445 N. Pennsylvania Street, room 812.

Architectural business collapsed again at the outbreak of World War Two. The office closed for about three years, opening again just before the end of the war upon receipt of business from Eli Lilly and Company. During 1945-46 the firm was located at 208 Hume-Mansur Building.

Robert Frost Daggett & Associates; Daggett, Naegele & Daggett, Inc.

The name of the firm was changed to Robert Frost Daggett & Associates in 1948, reflecting the association of F. Harold Naegele and Robert Frost Daggett, Jr. as partners. Doing business from 350 E. Fall Creek Parkway initially, Robert Frost Daggett & Associates moved to 1537 Central Avenue in 1952.

For business reasons, the firm was incorporated in 1952 as Daggett, Naegele & Daggett, Inc. Robert Frost Daggett, Sr., died three years later. The firm moved, in the same year, to 567 W. Westfield Blvd., where it remained until it was dissolved.

Daggett Naegele & Associates, Inc.

The corporate name was changed again, in 1961, to Daggett Naegele & Associates, Inc. A letterhead from the late 1970s lists as principals at the time: Robert Frost Daggett, Jr., AIA; F. Harold Naegele, AIA; Harry I. Reynolds, CSI; and Kenneth H. Mendenhall Jr. Associates were David R. Shirley, Robert A. Blakeslee, Charles T. Donegan, and George D. Mogle. The corporation was dissolved in 1977, upon Mr. Daggett's retirement.

Scope and Contents:

The records in this collection are from the prominent Indianapolis architectural firm founded by Robert Platt Daggett in 1868 and continued by his son Robert Frost Daggett and grandson Robert Frost Daggett, Jr. They were donated to Ball State University by Robert Frost Daggett, Jr. in 1977, when the firm was being dissolved. Most of the records are working drawings and renderings. Several sets of specifications and project manuals from the 1970s are included as well.

Regrettably little survives from the firm's earliest years. R. P. Daggett & Co. is represented in the collection by only seventeen drawings for four commissions. Included are drawings for the Dean Brothers Steam Pump Works in Indianapolis (1893) and four buildings at Purdue University (the Mechanical Engineering Building [Heavilon Hall, 1893], the Practical Mechanics Building and Shops [Michael Golden Laboratories, 1910], and the Veterinary Building [Veterinary Science Building, 1915]).

Nineteen sets of drawings in the collection are attributed to Robert Frost Daggett, Architect (1916-1947) and another ten to Robert Frost Daggett & Associates (1948-1951). Delineators for these renderings are Thomas E. Hibben (1924-ca. 1930), Richard Guy Foltz (ca. 1928-1930), Leon A. Roy (1939, 1949), and Leslie F. Ayres (1947-1949). Daggett, Naegele & Daggett, Inc. is represented by 21 projects (1952-1960).

Summary of Contents

The Archive received those records that were in the Daggett office at the time it closed. The years for which we have records, and the names under which the firm did business during those years, are:

1893-1915	(4 projects)	R. P. Daggett & Co.
1916-1947	(19 projects)	Robert Frost Daggett, Architect

1948-1951 (10 projects) Robert Frost Daggett & Associates
1952-1960 (21 projects) Daggett, Naegele & Daggett, Inc.
1961-1976 (56 projects) Daggett Naegele & Associates, Inc.

Most of the records are working drawings and renderings for architectural projects. Signed renderings, on illustration board, are by Thomas E. Hibben (1924-ca. 1930), Richard Guy Foltz (ca. 1928-1930), Leon A. Roy (1939, 1949), Leslie F. Ayres (1947-1949), and Kenneth H. Mendenhall, Jr. (1950-1972). Several sets of specifications and project manuals from the 1970s are included. Also in the collection are a few sets of drawings by architectural offices other than the Daggett firm: Cram & Ferguson (1929), O. A. Tislow (1948-51), McGuire & Shook (1948-1957), and Yeager Architects (1964-66).

The drawings, renderings, specifications and project manuals are arranged chronologically, in 114 catalog entries. Five additional catalog entries at the end of the inventory list reference material from the Daggett office, charts of job numbers for the years 1952 to 1972, and framed artwork not related to architectural practice. No office records were available for acquisition other than the reference material and job charts.

Cataloging of this collection was completed in 1989 with the aid of a Survey and Planning grant from the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, administered by the Division of Historic Preservation and Archaeology, Indiana Department of Natural Resources.

Related Holdings:

The Archive received most or all of the drawings that were in the Daggett office at the time it closed. This constituted only a fraction of the firm's prodigious output. Many of the early records were undoubtedly lost or destroyed over time. Other records were dispersed when the firm was dissolved; Mr. Daggett gave several drawing sets to clients and other interested parties before donating the remainder to Ball State.

A comprehensive catalog of projects by the Daggett firm, bound separately, lists the known or suspected locations of the dispersed drawings.

Drawings for buildings on Indiana University property, including the Medical Center at Indianapolis, may have gone to Indiana University. At least some originals are at the Indiana University Archives, Bloomington. Others may be at I.U.P.U.I.

Purdue University's Office of Facilities Planning and Construction holds drawings (copies in most cases) for buildings on Purdue's West Lafayette campus.

Tracings for Eli Lilly & Co. buildings may have gone to Lilly & Co.

Fink Roberts & Petrie, Inc., Indianapolis has architectural tracings for a few Daggett projects and structural tracings for many others. Fink Roberts & Petrie served as engineering consultants to the Daggett firm for many years.

The Indiana Historical Society in Indianapolis has a collection of Daggett materials, including correspondence, essays, company records and ledgers, architectural specifications and plans, photographs, brochures, and scrapbooks. A collection guide, "Daggett Architectural Firm Records, 1869-1977," is available on the Internet at the Indiana Historical Society web site.
